Ross D. Strong Laid To Rest Tuesday

LATTER DAY SAINTS HOLD FIRST CONFERENCE MAY 20-21 1944

Ross D. Strong, aged 68, was laid to rest in the local cemetery Tuesday after services in the First Ward church with Rev. H. P. Marston of Magrath in charge. Ira McBride conducted the choir and Roi Stone was at the organ. The following program was carried out.

Call to Worship, followed by Organ music played by Roi Stone. The choir sang "Rock of Ages" and the opening prayer was offered by Elder C. R. Wing of the First Ward Bishopric.

A Scripture reading was given by Rev. Marston and Mesdames King and Walker sang "Beyond Today."

Following prayer by Rev. Marston, a short talk was given by Elder James H. Walker in which he spoke of his acquaintance with deceased and the hope the scriptures give of a life beyond the grave.

T. K. Roberts sang a vocal solo "Thy Will be Done" and the choir sang "I Need Thee Every Hour."

Elder C. E. Alfred, a neighbor of deceased spoke briefly of his association with deceased and paid tribute to his willingness to help and his neighborly spirit. He extended sympathy to the sorrowing wife and children and explained the doctrine of the resurrection and eternal life.

Rev. Marston made a few remarks followed by another prayer and then the choir sang the closing hymn "Nearer My God to Thee" after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Marston.

Pall bearers: Scott Salmon W. Paris, Drex Selman, J.D. Brown, Peter Coppieters and J. D. Hall. A large cortege followed the remains to the cemetery where Christensen Bros. had charge of the graveside ceremonies.

Each spoke of the visionary contributions of these men, as exhibited by the growth and advancement of Mormonism.

Relative to this theme Sister June Lamb, Regina, spoke on "Priesthood and Presidency" and Charles Parks, Regina, delivered an address on the topic, "Revelation."

President Walter Miller brought the conference to a close with a discourse in which he stressed the heritage of which all Latter-Day Saints were recipients, "because of the sacrifices, foresight and leadership of these men who for more than 100 years directed the affairs of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints."

The above clipping was received last week from Elder S. B. Smith who reports he and Mrs. Smith as being very busy and greatly enjoying their labors in Saskatchewan. Mrs. Smith will be returning home in the very near future but her husband hopes to be able to remain in the mission field until early fall. We join with his many friends in wishing him continued success in his missionary labors.

TRAIN TODAY AND FLY TOMORROW

Won Lit 'Utah Joe' Passes Suddenly

Death came unexpectedly Tuesday night to Won Lit aged 46, of the Utah Cafe, known to the many customers of this popular cafe as "Joe". He had been in ill health for about a year but was feeling better over the week-end and felt himself on the way to recovery. Joe was a very popular fellow and liked by all and was one of the joint managers of the Utah.

The body was removed to Lethbridge, and services will be held from the Undertaking parlor with burial in the Chinese cemetery at Lethbridge.

He leaves his parents, wife and five children in China to mourn his passing.

Air Cadet Flashes

Tuesday is "D" Day for Raymond Air Cadets. The seasons work and training will be evaluated in a half hour by R. C.A.F. Officers. The Annual Inspection will start with Ceremonial Drill at 14.30 hours at the ball park. Our town does not support a squadron large enough to divide into two flights. The band will take over after the Ceremonial. The training facilities and Ordnance Room & Equipment Room will be inspected. The public, particularly the parents, are invited to the ball park to witness the inspection.

The Aircraft Recognition contest did not include as many boys as hoped. The contest closed last Monday with the "Courageous Vets" winning and F.S. Hudson, J. taking the individual honors. The President of the Canadian Legion will present prizes at the Parade June 19th.

The Cadets leave Raymond July 17, by bus enroute to R.A. F., S.F.T.S. at Penhold for their summer camp.

Long Awaited Invasion Is On

Starting on the sixth hour of the sixth day of the sixth month the big invasion which has been the BIG headache of Nazism for months broke loose Tuesday morning, after being delayed for twenty-four hours. Words fail in an attempt to describe the gigantic scale on which details of this invasion had been worked out, and plans which elicited without a hitch along the English coast so that an invader front 15 miles wide was occupied within a few minutes. Here are a few of the headlines relating to the big event:

11,000 Planes Cover Allies: Opposition Light, Losses Small So Far: 2,000 Tons of Shells Every Ten Minutes: Canadian Naval Craft in First Wave of Attack: D-Day Postponed Once for 24 Hours.

These are but a few of the headlines that captioned papers as the invasion broke loose. Caught more or less unprepared despite their boastings about preparation and the strength of their defenses, the Nazi defence commenced crumbling immediately, and beachheads once established were widened and driven deeper as more and more troops, guns and supplies came ashore. 4,000 boats with countless smaller craft emerged out of nowhere to assist in the conveying of the task forces to the Normandy coast where first landings were made. One flier returning after a flight over the coast on a bombing mission said the ships were so close they made a veritable bridge from the English to the French coast. The heavy pounding by the naval batteries filled the air with orange and white flame as the coast area was pounded steadily preceding the actual landing operations.

First intimation of the invasion was heard here about 10:45 when a German report stated that troops were landing, and an hour or so later British stations confirmed the report that the invasion was on.

Airborne troops were landed in great numbers miles behind the enemy's first line of defence and it was several hours after the first troops landed that the two units joined each other. Two complete Canadian divisions, army, naval and air divisions are in the spearhead and are taking their full share of the job. At noon Thursday the radio reported that the fighting on the eastern front had commenced again as the great Soviet war machine got into motion to aid the Allied troops in their invasion of the western front. Prayer services were held across Canada in churches and in military training quarters for the success of the invasion and the protection of the troops. Weather over the channel which was rough and caused a lot of seasickness when the invasion started clearing and the sea was smooth for the transport of reserves & supplies according to Thursday noon broadcast.

Milk Up 4c. Lb. Butterfat

Manager Hancock of the Ray to the Co-op where you get top money Co-op, announced this week that prices for fluid milk will be raised to 44c. per lb. with pigs, there is almost always a good supply of whey on hand that you can get to feed your pigs, which according to paid. A reduction in the Government subsidy was made June 1st and this increase in butterfat price is to help offset this so that returns to the producer will be just about what they are now.

Commencing the first of this week too egg prices were advanced 1c. per dozen, so that producers are now receiving 15c. per dozen for eggs. If you are interested talk it over with this will make it to your inter the drivers or the Manager at get to sell your milk and eggs the Co-op.

Egg producers can have their eggs picked up by the milk truck if they desire for 15c. per case or whatever arrangements are made with milk truck drivers. There is a truck covering the Magrath road one the Wellington and north district, and one producers are now receiving to Stirling every day. If you are interested talk it over with this will make it to your inter the drivers or the Manager at get to sell your milk and eggs the Co-op.

Stampede Days Coming Up

It won't be long until the Stampede will be on. L. D. King and his committee have their program all lined up and it will be printed soon with the usual attractive prizes in all events and a long list of cow waddies expected to be on hand for a lot of the dough.

Clark Lund will again be Arena Manager and assisting him will be the boys we all know and admire so much for their sportsmanship, their daring and their efforts all the time to put on a good show. The ground and tracks has already been worked and is in pretty good shape and another working prior to the Stampede should put it in good shape.

SPORTS DAY

Wednesday June 21, 2 p.m. at the Public School.

Special Events: Refreshments Sale of Useful Articles, Junior Dance in the evening.

This promises to be one of the outstanding events of the season. Jars, vases, dishes and many articles for dresser or table have been made and artistically decorated, for this occasion, by the pupils.

Sports events promise much excitement, with many boys & girls already under special training.

Refreshments will be served on the grounds. All proceeds from this event to go for the Children's Ward in the new Hospital.

Remember the date and help the children to help the Hospital.

CLUB MEETING

The Athenaeum held their regular monthly meeting at the Library on June 5th.

Pres. Opal Widge took charge of the meeting and minutes of the meeting were read and approved.

A few minutes were spent in discussing next month's theme "Popular Novels" and it was decided that each member should give a brief review of a popular novel of the year. All members were asked to bring guests.

The rest of the evening was devoted to a round table discussion of Greece, covering both Ancient and Modern Greece. The meeting was then adjourned.

SOCCER LEAGUE

A soccer league of High School boys is being organized and will comprise four or five teams. We hope to have the schedule and more details next week.

These boys will be coached by old soccer players, namely Ted Wagstaff, Tommy Alab, Frank Shaw, Ike Kitchen and Jack Mehew. Watch these columns for information regarding the progress of the boys and dates and time of play.

WILLIS TAYLOR PROMOTED

Fort Sheridan, Illinois—The promotion of Frank W. Taylor, of Raymond, Alberta, Canada, from private first class to technician fifth grade was announced by Colonel John T. Rhett, Post Commander. Taylor works in the food chemistry department of the Sixth Service Command and Laboratory at Fort Sheridan.

Rotarians had a real enjoyable meeting Monday last, when after the splendid luncheon, Bob Zobell officer in the R.C.A.F. gave the fellows a very interesting talk on some of his experiences on operational duties in various theatres of war. Other guests at the meeting were A. K. Olive, Superintendent of Treasury Branches and Walter Zobel, father of Bob.

Bob has been overseas for two years and a half and is home on a month's leave and then expects to go back to England to resume his work there as a member of testing unit. He graduated as a pilot in Canada and then went to England where he trained as a fighter pilot, and flew Spitfires during his time on active bombing work. He worked out of an English airbase and took part in the Dieppe raid and told of the hot time they had there and the value those lessons had been to the men of the Allied services. Then he spent several months in Malta. Enemy raids were a daily occurrence, but their main objective was the air fields on the island. He spoke of the primitive nature of the Maltese people and the scarcity of food there, especially when the convoys were interfered with trying to get thru with food and supplies. Rations were very slim most of the time and at one time arrangements had been made to evacuate the island if the convoys did not arrive within a certain time. It came. While at Malta he and some of his buddies visited Tripoli and Algiers and enjoyed their trips very much.

Their ship was the target of enemy bombs between Gibraltar and England, but the "eggs" straddled the boat and they got along without damage. Bob then took up his present work and has been at that end of flying ever since. He expressed his delight at being home and was somewhat surprised at the plenty that prevailed here. The Rotarians gave Bob a big hand for his interesting and instructive talk.

Mr. and Mrs. J. LeRoy Anderson were Lethbridge visitors on Sunday with relatives. Roy said we seemed to have more rain here than fell in Lethbridge.

John F. Hamilton, Massey-Harris dealer of Magrath was in Raymond Tuesday for the funeral of Ross D. Strong, our local Massey-Harris agent.

Cardston received about an inch of rain in a near cloudburst which hit that district Wednesday evening. It seemed to follow the ridge down as a heavy rainfall was reported there during Wednesday evening.

Snow On Sunday

Commencing sometime during Saturday night, rain and snow fell all day Sunday and until dark Sunday night. There was a north wind with the storm making it quite cool, but with an inch of moisture fell during the day although it seemed like a great deal more than that. The snow melted as it fell but it was real snow and probably just came to maintain Southern Alberta's record for dishing up even snow storms every month of the year.

The storm will be of untold benefit to everything. It sort of put the climax to a showery week during which about an inch of moisture had fallen, and now even grass lands are perking up after being brown and sickly looking all spring. Beets are being thinned rapidly now after the storm, and grain crops and gardens are coming along rapidly, but not any more so than the weeds which are making a fine growth and really making gardeners polish the hoe handle to keep ahead of them.

BIG BUSINESS

The magnitude of the European invasion can hardly be imagined. Try to vision information and instructions to man and direct to split-second timing a task force like that which swarmed ashore on Europe this day morning after the softening up by shell barrage from the naval units. Reports state that there are already 30 divisions of Allied troops in France. To maintain the transportation necessary to keep these forces supplied with food, ammunition and so on. The ships, trains and planes required to take the injured to hospital, and the organization necessary to keep all this vast army of soldiers, air so colossal as the actual fighting of this gigantic undertaking.

To the men and women who organized this mammoth undertaking and kept it such a secret we take off our hats. A thousand questions arise in connection with it. Where were all the ships? Where were all the planes? How could two separate naval divisions, and countless squadrons of planes reach the target and conference operations on such a fine schedule? Modern science and methods in communications, transportation, explosives and so on must be the answer. Radio, telegraph, the field telephone and other inventions, with the modern and efficient sights for planes, ships and land forces, permit a curtain of fire to shield the advance of troops and reduce the danger of enemy cannon fire to a minimum. What about the feeding of these men? We imagine any of us could learn valuable lessons on the preparation and serving of food from a visit to a field kitchen of the armed forces. These men get hungry three times a day and they are well fed. Probably we would find much of our bacon, our powdered eggs, our dehydrated fruits and other foods, being made ready for the Allied soldiers.

Yes, this invasion is definitely big business in every way. That it is succeeding so well and with so few casualties, considering its size is due to the planning, collaboration and study of another vast army of clerks, technicians, petty officers and the higher officials of land sea and air power. Success and more power to this group who are writing such a chapter into the history of democracy.

NEWS NOTES

Miss Janet Ireland, teller at the local Treasury Branch spent the week-end with relatives in Lethbridge.

M. A. Coombs, 74 and a pioneer of Southern Alberta, passed away in Cardston Monday night and his funeral is being held in Cardston today. Mr. Coombs was a great friend of Chas. W. Brewerton, both of the families coming from Payson, Utah.

The living quarters which have formed a part of the Red Head Service Station have been demolished and the repair shop of Jack Ackland has been extended back the full depth of the building making it about twice its former size. T. K. Roberts has had the work in charge.

SERENITY

It is often claimed that the tempo of modern life makes serenity impossible of attainment. But this is not a valid explanation. The absence of serenity denotes a certain failure on the part of the home, the school and other agencies of education to help people acquire the power to be self-reliant in thought and action.

Serenity is a sign of the liberation of the soul. It betokens a personality in whom conflicts have become resolved and fears banished. It is not smugness, for this is a sign of shallow confidence. It is more than a sign of inward calm, for it comes from a mind that is sure of itself. A person who has a defined philosophy of life, who is not a prey to spiritual gusts and storms, who is not torn by fears and doubts and jealousies, who has attained true happiness, can have serenity.

People in all ages have de-

WEEKLY LETTER

HAY QUALITY IS IMPORTANT

In the production of forage crops, far too much emphasis has been placed on yield and not sufficient emphasis on quality. Quality is actually feed value. High quality is, therefore, a combination of high nutritive value and palatability. Quality is receiving more and more attention by a number of leading nutritional institutions. At Cornell a test was conducted to determine comparative importance of the kind and quality of hay. Different lots of calves were fed high and poor quality hays. The high quality hays were early cut timothy, mixed hay and second cut legume hay while the poor quality hays were late cut timothy and late cut alfalfa. All groups received the same concentrate.

The groups fed the high quality hay gained 1½ pounds daily while those fed poor hay gained less than a pound daily. The high quality groups developed deep capacious bodies, while the poor quality hay groups developed fat instead. Furthermore extra allowances of concentrate failed to bring the poor quality groups up to the standard of the high quality groups. The test proved also that the quality of hay influenced the result far more than did the kind of hay.

Similar work conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture points out the importance of stage of growth on the protein content of alfalfa. Although highest yield of hay was obtained by cutting at half bloom stage the highest yield of protein value per acre was obtained at pre bloom stage due to the higher percentage of leaves at that time. Both yields and percentages of protein decline rapidly after alfalfa reaches half bloom and are materially reduced when alfalfa is not cut till full bloom stage. The loss of leaves that contain the larger proportion of protein causes these lower yields.

The state of maturity of alfalfa fed to steers has a material effect on the gains in weight of the steers. In fact more than twice as many pounds of alfalfa hay cut in the seed stage was required to produce 100 pounds of gains in steers than alfalfa cut in the bud stage. The amount of hay required for 100 pounds gain was:

Stage of Maturity	Pounds Hay required for each 100 pounds gain
Bud Stage	1,628
10 p.c. Bloom	2,086
Full Bloom	2,163
Seed Stage	3,910

To obtain the highest quality hay from crested wheat grass it is of the utmost importance that the crop be cut at the proper stage. This is usually just after heading. Crested wheatgrass matures very rapidly and if it is allowed to become too mature it loses both quality and palatability. The highest returns to the feeders come from high quality rather than high yield while naturally the combination of both high quality and high yield should be the aim of all.

The General Annual Field Day will be held at the Lethbridge Experimental Station on Friday, June 23rd.

A Third Barley Smut

Nearly all farmers are familiar with covered smut on barley, and they know that it can be controlled by treating the seed with a mercurial dust or with formalin. Loose smut, also, is familiar and it can be controlled only by the use of smut free seed or by means of the somewhat difficult hot water treatment.

Recently, the existence of another kind has been demonstrated and it is now known to be fairly common in the West. It is called 'false loose smut' or 'intermediate smut.' In the field it resembles ordinary loose smut, but in its life history it is closely akin to covered smut. Mercurial dusts and formalin afford effective control.

Since false loose smut looks like ordinary loose smut and behaves like covered smut, it is important to know something of its distribution and occurrence on different varieties of barley. Line Elevators Farm Service is cooperating with the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Winnipeg, in making a survey to determine the prevalence of false loose smut. Line Elevator agents, members of junior farm clubs and others are being provided with special envelopes in which to send loose smut specimens to us for microscopical examination.

This is a fine chance for farmers to aid plant scientists. Ask the nearest Line Elevator agent for a leaflet illustrating the different smut and for specimen envelopes.

FARMS FOR SALE

I have been instructed to sell four good farms about 12 miles north east of Brooks. These farms can be delivered to their purchasers next fall. Their price is from twenty-five to thirty-five dollars per irrigable acre. All are very good mixed farming propositions and one is a specially good hog farm. Write to Charles Powlett, Barrister, Brooks Alta.

A start has been made on the excavation of the basement for the new hospital. Construction is expected to commence the first of the week and everyone will watch with interest the progress of the building.

WAR GOODS DISPOSAL

The Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating has set up a committee with which the Crown Company War Assets Corporation will make arrangements for the marketing of such things as toilets, pipe, radiators, furnaces, stoves, bathtubs, etc. The plan provides for the millions of dollars worth of used merchandise as above mentioned, much of it as good as when first sold, to be bought up at fixed prices on a quota basis by various manufacturers, Bulletin.

wholesalers, and others in the trade. The fixed prices will be arrived at in conference between the War Assets Corporation and the committee of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. The purpose of the plan is to prevent great quantities of such equipment to be "bought up cheaply and dumped on the market at cut-throat prices."

Let us look at the other side of the picture. Less than 5 per cent of prairie farm homes have bathroom facilities and less than 2 per cent have flush toilets. Only about 11 per cent of Canadian farm homes have furnaces, a serious hardship during long, cold winters. Farm people of the prairie provinces in this twentieth century are living under nineteenth century sanitary conditions. The meanest section of any modern city is better equipped in this respect than the average farm home.

The Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating is evidently determined that prairie farmers will remain in this benighted condition. They are going to do everything in their power to prevent plumbing facilities being sold at prices farmers can afford. One official even suggests that such surplus plumbing should be "dumped" in Europe in order that prices might be maintained in Canada. Evidently he preferred to see the living conditions of Europeans improved in preference to there being any improvement in the homes of prairie farmers. — Brooks Bulletin.
